About the Department -

Elk Grove's Fire Department has a long history of service to the community. Started as a small grass roots organization in 1893, the volunteer Department made Sacramento area history in 1940 when it became the first Fire District to employ a full time Fire Chief. Another historic first came

In 1955 when Elk Grove became the first Fire Department in Sacramento County to offer ambulance service.

In 1985, the Elk Grove Fire District merged with the Elk Grove Recreation & Park District to form the Elk Grove Community Services District. Working together over the years through this innovative partnership, park and fire professionals have collaborated on improvements that have increased the area's recreational amenities and enhanced emergency response capabilities.

In 1996, the Fire Department transitioned from paid-call to full-time career status. Today it employs over 100 full-time personnel.

The Elk Grove CSD Fire Department provides fire protection and emergency medical service to those living, working and doing business within the District. Mutual aid and ambulance transport services are also provided to the nearby communities of Wilton, Courtland, Walnut Grove, and Sacramento.

While other Fire Departments have become stagnant, or worse, been forced to cut back, the Elk Grove CSD Fire Department continues to grow. Since 1999, the Department has opened two new growth fire stations. Two additional fire stations are planned for construction prior to 2010. And a dedicated truck company is on the way in FY 2004-05. All of these changes add up to one great opportunity for career advancement in Elk Grove.

About Elk Grove

Elk Grove is located in the southern portion of Sacramento County and is halfway between Sacramento and Stockton, straddling Highway 99. It is within easy driving distance to both the Bay Area and Sierra Mountain resorts.

Elk Grove has been recognized as the fastest growing community in the Sacramento region. Population figures continue to increase monthly, however last count exceeded 100,000 residents. While the community continues to grow, locals strive to retain the community's "small town feel."

The area is very family-oriented and offers everything from starter homes to ranch estates. Housing costs range from the low $200,000s for new, entry-level homes and can go to the $400,000+ price range for executive homes.

Elk Grove's population is diverse in ethnicity, age, and income levels. The region boasts excellent schools and a school district with an impeccable reputation. The community features more than 70 parks and an extensive creek and trail system.

The community hosts several special events throughout the year including the Elk Grove Community Harvest Festival (October), Elk Grove Western Festival (May), A Salute to the Red, White and Blue (July 4), Strauss Festival (July), and a Holiday Kick-Off (November).

Elk Grove is a great place to live, work, and play.
